In Photo Finish, which Mr. Ustinov wrote, directed and produced, a highly successful, 80-year-old author name Sam encounters in his study three men who are himself, and yet not himself. They are Sam at 20, an idealistic poet; Sam at 40, a still struggling author, and Sam at 60, smugly rich because of his compromises with his early ideals. His life almost over, Sam Old is able to assay them with caustic objectivity.
