The Play

Ginny loves Greg and Greg loves Ginny, but before she can say yes to Greg.

Ginny must get rid of her much-older and married lover, Philip.

Philip loves his wife, Sheila, and suspects that she might have a lover (Why not? "What good for the Gander...")

One fine Sunday Ginny goes to the country to see Philip, having told Greg that she is going to visit her parents. Greg follows her, and indeed arrives at the house before her – and meets Sheila and Philip – who he thinks are Ginny's parents. Philip suspects that Greg is his wife's lover!

Ginny arrives and the quartet is complete. Misunderstanding are cleared up only to be replaced by others...
