Adar falls in love with Danielle, a girl he has just met, after spending a passionate night with her. But she disappears immediately after their tryst, and he learns that the only way to see her again is to become a patient at the psychiatric institution where she resides. He is surprised to discover the innovative methods that the prestigious private institution uses to treat its patients. The thin line between sanity and madness is revealed in a series of funny and heartwarming encounters. Will Adar manage to save Danielle? Will Danielle manage to fix Adar?
