

WHAT ARE WE GOING TO DO ABOUT JENNY?

By Donald R. Wilde

Play no. 694

Opening show: 31/12/2015

Translated by: Smulik Levi

Edited and Directed by: Hillel Mitelpunkt

Set Designed by: Alexandra Nardi

Costumes Designed by: Ofra Konfino

Music by: Shefi Yishai

Lighting Designed by: Meir Alon

Movement by: Sharon Gal

The Characters:

JENNY EATON: LIA KEONIG

ELLEN ELKOK, her eldest daughter: MAYA MAOZ

CHARLOT WANE, her younger daughter: RICKI BLICH

ODORA, her sister-in-law: DVORA KEYDAR/FLORANCE BLOCH

WALTER SIMON, Ellen's boyfriend, a Grontologist: ROI MILLER/AMNON WOLF

PAUL, band member: SHAHAR RAZ/BEN FRID

FLOID, Band member: DORON AMIT

HOGARTH, a real estate agent: SHAHAR RAZ /BEN FRID

The Play

Seventy five year old Jenny Eaton, lost her husband about a year ago. Instead of taking the safe and predictable route to a dreary and boring elderly life, as her daughters are expecting of her, she is unexpectedly springing into a new and exciting Life: Painting nude, getting friendly with "progressive" musicians, gets hooked on champagne and brings a new lover into her home. Jenny's sister in law Odora, a hypochondriac, is trying to understand the meaning of the change Jenny is going through. Her anxious daughters try to bring Jenny back to her natural path of aging, but she is determined to fight on her right to celebrate life everyday as if her whole life is still a head of her. What Are We Going To Do About Jenny, Is a comedy about each and every one of us, the youth, who live in denial and fear from aging, and the elderly, who persist on the adventurousness and spirit of the youth that is still burning inside of them

